2025 OPERATION MOJAVE FALCON

U.S. ARMY RESERVE KICKS OFF EXERCISE AT PORT OF LONG BEACH

June 3, 2025

OPERATION MOJAVE FALCON TRAINS SOLDIERS TO SUPPORT LARGE-SCALE DEPLOYMENTS

The U.S. Army Reserve this week is partnering with the Port of Long Beach and the U.S. Coast Guard to conduct a critical joint port operations training exercise that started Monday and will continue through June 9 in the Long Beach Harbor District.

Known as Operation Mojave Falcon, the endeavor – the Army Reserve's largest training exercise ever – involves more than 9,000 soldiers at locations across the country, including more than 500 at the Port. It is designed to enhance the ability of the U.S. Army part-time reserve force to support large-scale combat operations and show its agility and commitment to national defense.

"This incredible partnership demonstrates the unmatched

Army Reserve units began a weeklong transportation and logistics exercise in the Port of Long Beach this week. At a briefing Monday in the Port are, from left, Army Reserve Brigadier General Manu Davis, Commanding General, Deployment Support Command; Army Reserve Maj. Gen. Dianne Del Rosso, Commanding General, 79th Theater Sustainment Command; Long Beach Mayor Rex Richardson; Harbor Commission President Bonnie Lowenthal; Capt. Stacey Crecy, Commander, U.S. Coast Guard, Sector Los Angeles-Long Beach; and Port of Long Beach CEO Mario Cordero.
